

Table of Contents

List of Figures	9
List of Tables	11
Foreword by the Dean of the Faculty, Prof. Dr. Patrick Oonincx	13
Towards a data-driven military – an introduction Peter B.M.J. Pijpers, Mark Voskuijl & Robert J.M. Beeres	15
PART I. Data-Driven Organisation	23
Chapter 1. Digitalisation, organising and organisational choice: Exploring the challenges of digital transformation using five applied sociotechnical lenses Eric-Hans Kramer & Guido van Os	25
Chapter 2. Data analytics in human resource management: Benefits and challenges Tessa op den Buijs	51
Chapter 3. Data-driven maintenance of military systems: Potential and challenges Tiedo Tinga, Axel Homborg & Chris Rijdsdijk	73
Chapter 4. Federated learning for enabling cooperation between the Royal Netherlands Navy and external parties in developing predictive maintenance Anna C. Vriend, Wieger W. Tiddens & Relinde P.M.J. Jurrius	97
Chapter 5. Information- and data-driven organisations from promise to practice? Reflecting on maturity dynamics in a defence sustainment organisation Gert Schijvenaars, André J. Hoogstrate, Ton van Kampen, Gerold de Gooijer & Paul C. van Fenema	121

PART II. Data Driven Support to Decision Making	143
Chapter 6. The effect of big data and AI on forecasting in defence and military applications André J. Hoogstrate	145
Chapter 7. Military helicopter flight mission planning using data science and operations research Roy Lindelauf, Herman Monsuur & Mark Voskuijl	161
Chapter 8. Applying GTSP-algorithms in maritime patrolling missions that require mutual support Martijn van Ee, Geraldo de Lima Filho & Herman Monsuur	183
Chapter 9. From data to effective actions: Providing actionable information for detect and avoid Erik Theunissen	203
Chapter 10. Battling information overload in military intelligence & security organisations Tess Horlings, Roy Lindelauf & Sebastiaan Rietjens	221
PART III. Data Driven Operations	237
Chapter 11. A conceptual investigation of the trade-off between privacy and algorithmic performance Job Timmermans & Roy Lindelauf	239
Chapter 12. Information manoeuvre and the Netherlands armed forces: Legal challenges ahead Paul A.L. Ducheine, Peter B.M.J. Pijpers & Eric H. Pouw	261
Chapter 13. The use of biometrics in military operations abroad and the right to private life Marten Zwanenburg & Steven van de Put	283
Chapter 14. 2020 Nagorno-Karabakh War: A case of triple D: Diplomacy, Drones and Deception Peter de Werd, Michiel de Jong & Han Bouwmeester	303

Epilogue	333
Chapter 15. War by numbers: A “technocratic hubristic fable”? Henk de Jong & Floribert Baudet	335
About the editors	357
About the authors	359