

Table of Contents

Foreword -----	3-4
Acknowledgments -----	5-6
Acknowledgments for the images -----	7
Introduction -----	8-14
Brief introduction to the History of Photography in Iran -----	15-25
 1. Visual Laterality: The Relation Between the Direction of Writing and Composition -----	 22-49
1.1. Definition of visual laterality
1.2. Nineteenth-century Iranian studio portrait photography
1.3. Visual brain and visual perception
1.4. Asymmetries of the photographic space: brain mechanisms or artistic conventions?
1.5. Neurological approach: reading habits versus aesthetic preferences.
 2. The Written Image: Text and Photography -----	 50-82
2.1. Calligraphy and its use in Persian painting tradition
2.2. Signatures and portraits
2.3. Text and nineteenth-century Iranian portrait studio photography
 3. Pose and Objects Held by the Sitter -----	 83-102
3.1. Gesture, posture and pose
3.2. Pose and objects held by the sitter in Persian painting tradition
3.3. Pose and objects held by the sitter in nineteenth-century Iranian portrait photography
 4. Arrangement of Space -----	 103-120
4.1. Spatial characteristics of Persian miniature painting
4.2. The use of space in Persian miniature painting
4.3. The use of space in photography
 5. Interactions between Western and Iranian photography -----	 121-147
5.1. Schema of positions in portrait photography
5.2. Western photographer versus local sitter: the other in photography
5.3. Interaction between Western and Iranian photographers
5.4. Hybridity versus Appropriation
 Conclusion -----	 148-150
After-word -----	151
Bibliography -----	152-169
Appendix: Photo- Chronology -----	170-173
Curriculum Vitae -----	174