

Contents

	Preface	7
	Kareljan Schoutens
	Introduction	9
1	Astronomers and the making of modern physics	15
	Frans van Lunteren
2	The drag coefficient from Fresnel to Laue	47
	Michel Janssen
3	The origins of the Korteweg-De Vries equation: Collaboration between Korteweg and De Vries	61
	Bastiaan Willink
4	A note on Einstein's Scratch Notebook of 1910-1913	81
	Diana K. Buchwald, Jürgen Renn and Robert Schögl
5	The reception of relativity in the Netherlands	89
	Jip van Besouw and Jeroen van Dongen
6	'Our stomachs can't wait that long': E.C. van Leersum and the rise of applied nutrition research in the Netherlands	111
	Pim Huijnen
7	Ernst Laqueur (1880-1947): The career of an outsider	131
	Peter Jan Knegtmans
8	Much ado about cold: Leiden's resistance to the International Temperature Scale of 1927	141
	Dirk van Delft
9	The magnet and the cold: Wander de Haas and the burden of being Kamerlingh Onnes' successor	163
	Ad Maas

10. 'The search for a black cat in an unlit room, where there is no cat at all':
Investigation by the Royal Netherlands Academy of Sciences into dowsing and earth rays	179
Jan Guichelaar
11 Amsterdam memories	199
Roger H. Stuewer
About the authors	207
Index	211
Colour insert: Material heritage of Dutch science between 1850 and 1950:
Ten highlights from Museum Boerhaave	