Table of Contents

List of Figures 9

List of Tables 11

Foreword – by the Vice-Dean of the Faculty Military Sciences / Netherlands Defence Academy 13
Sebastiaan Rietjens

Foreword – by Secretary-General of the Netherlands Ministry of Defence and the Netherlands Chief of Defence 15
Maarten Schurink and General Onno Eichelsheim

Introduction 17
Huib Zijderveld, Annelies van Vark, Floribert Baudet, Edwin Dado, René Moelker and Ronald Vuijk

Part 1. Historical Perspectives 33

Chapter 1. Military Reforms and Upscaling: the Case of the Dutch State Army and Navy 1585-1621 35
Michiel de Jong

Chapter 2. “If fate should strike us with a new occupation…” . Dutch defence preparations, 1946–1949 47
Floribert Baudet

Chapter 3. The Cold War ‘life jacket’ : The scalable armed forces of the Netherlands – a historical perspective 65
Jan Hoffenaar and Daan Theodorus Sanders

Part 2. Organising Scalability 83

Chapter 4. Strategic Defence Production: Resource Scaling from an Organizational Network Perspective 85
Paul C. van Fenema, Jörg Raab, and Matthijs J.E.M. van Groenendael

Chapter 5. Scaling in unpredictable strategic environments : Reflecting on strategic flexibility from an emergent innovation perspective 107
Robbert Marnix Verhulst

Chapter 6. Scalable defence infrastructure : Leveraging industrial, flexible and demountable construction and Legolisation for operational flexibility within the Dutch defence organisation 125
Edwin Dado, Jan Willem Petersen, Sebastiaan Leertouwer, Ruud Moeskops, and Alexander Schmets

Chapter 7. The challenge of scaling innovation in the Netherlands armed forces : Integrating technological artifacts in multilayered sociotechnical systems 147
Eric-Hans Kramer, Guido van Os, and Robbert Marnix Verhulst

Chapter 8. Readiness through scalability : Structuring the military for large scale combat operations 165
Cornelis van Lit

Chapter 9. Scalable preparedness: Healthcare initiatives for resilient wartime response 185
Willem Goes, René Janssen, and Alexander van Oers

Chapter 10. The role of mission command in scaling up the armed forces 201
Kevin van Loon and Stefan Mastenbroek

Part 3. Enabling Scalability 219

Chapter 11. Creating support for conscription: The dilemma of scaling up human resources 221
René Moelker and Jörg Noll

Chapter 12. Promising strategies for building societal resilience against hybrid warfare 239
Jeanette de Weert and Mark Levels

Chapter 13. Exploring grassroots knowledge production : Towards internal crowdsourcing for military intelligence 261
Emma van der Meulen and Peter de Werd

Chapter 14. Wisdom of crowds : An exploratory case-study on crowdsourcing as a method for intelligence gathering within the Dutch Defence Intelligence and Security Service 281
Emma van der Meulen

Chapter 15. Scaling military education in wartime 297
Roy de Ruiter

Chapter 16. Scalability of NATO armed forces from a financial-economic perspective : A preliminary descriptive account 313
Marion Bogers, Michelle Hogendoorn, Jacqueline Heeren-Bogers, and Robert Beeres

Chapter 17. Growing gains? Financial scalability of the Dutch defence industry by private equity 343
Erwin Hardeman, Robert Bertrand, Jan van Lieshout, and Robert Beeres

Chapter 18. Export controls : A scalable set of instruments to counter threats to national and global security in a changing world 357
Joop Voetelink

Discussion and conclusions 375
Huib Zijderveld, Floribert Baudet, and Annelies van Vark

About the Editors 393

About the Authors 395